It's Tax Day, which means it's the last day to file your taxes unless you file for an extension! Here's everything you need to know to file your taxes with ease.

When to file your taxes

The tax filing deadline in the U.S. is today, Monday, April 18 for the vast majority of the country. (The exceptions? Maine and Massachusetts residents have until April 19 due to the Patriots' Day holiday in those states.) Whichever day your taxes are due, filing taxes can be a real headache. That's where we come in to help.

What tax software is best

Here at Reviewed, we test products year-round to find out what's worth buying and what you should skip. Yes, that includes tax software. After testing multiple platforms, we found TurboTax was the best for users. It's intuitive, offers differently priced packages depending on your tax needs (if your needs are basic, there's a free edition) and allows you to access multiple professional support options.

► The Daily Money: Get personal finance and consumer news in your inbox

Another user-friendly option we tested is H&R Block. While it didn't come out on top, we liked that it has a sleek interface for easy navigation, the free edition includes unemployment income and you can even have a professional file on your behalf. Curious how we tested and chose those options? Check out our Best Tax Software of 2022 guide to see our full methodology and results.
